

CYBER INSURANCE AND WHY YOUR SMALL BUSINESS NEEDS COVERAGE

It's no secret that cybercrime is on the rise. A recent study indicates cybercrime is now the most serious threat to small businesses, accounting for roughly half of all attacks.1

There are many steps businesses can take to prevent a cyber incident, such as investing in robust cybersecurity measures. However, if an incident does occur, having cyber insurance can help you financially recover.

What is cyber insurance?

Cyber insurance covers financial losses that result from cyber events such as data breaches, cyber theft, ransomware and more.

- Cyberattacks are now a serious threat to small businesses because they typically lack enterprise-level protection.
- insurance and must be purchased separately.

Cyber insurance is not typically included within general

- Each company offering a policy form has a unique list of coverage options available as well as exclusions, leading to a plethora of options.
- If your business handles or stores personal/sensitive information online, cyber insurance should be a top priority.

Why do small businesses need cyber insurance?

businesses are not properly equipped to recover from a cyber incident.2

Over 80% of small businesses have proper cyber insurance coverage.2

disclosed cyber incidents last year, i.e., almost three incidents per day.2

cyber incident prevention and response strategy as effective.2

businesses consider their businesses do not have a cybersecurity expert in-house.2

It is always better to contact your insurer to get the exact details of what they cover. Typically, this is what cyber insurance covers:

What does cyber insurance cover?

- - Cost of legal proceedings

Cost of recovering data

- - Cost of notifying stakeholders about the incidents of those affected

Cost of restoring the personal identities

Companies have poor prevention practices in place

Companies fail to document preventative measures

Accidental errors and omissions interruption timeframe

A third party or contractor is at fault

Coverage does not extend beyond the cyberattack. However, many insurance providers are reluctant to offer coverage due to the perceived risks. While that may sound like bad news, don't worry — it's possible to get and keep coverage with the help of an experienced IT service provider. Schedule a no-obligation consultation to learn more about how we can help you

Cyber insurance is a vital tool in protecting businesses from financial fallout in the aftermath of a stay compliant with your policy.

210-582-5814